New Year, Same Hazards – No Complacency

As we start a new year, it's easy to feel confident, maybe too confident. Many serious lineman injuries happen during jobs we've done hundreds of times. Familiarity breeds shortcuts. The hazard didn't change just because we're comfortable with the task.

Discussion Points:

- What's one task you do on autopilot?
 - Where do shortcuts usually show up (grounding, cover-up, rigging, traffic control)?

Treat every job like it's your first day on it. Slow down, follow the process, and respect the hazard
