

Conversations and Horseplay

Talking with coworkers is normal, but excessive conversation or joking around can pull attention away from the task at hand. Linemen must stay focused on their responsibilities, especially when working near energized lines or operating equipment. Friendly communication is good for teamwork, but everyone should stay aware of when it's time to focus.