

Mental Distractions

Personal stress, fatigue, or thinking about things outside of work can affect concentration. When your mind is somewhere else, your ability to notice hazards decreases. If something is weighing on you, take a moment to reset and refocus before starting the job. A clear mind helps keep you and your crew safe.